A Short History of the Middle East 2016-11-10

this book seeks to offer an interpretation of how terrorism has become a tool of muslim radicals and why it is completely at odds with the teaching of islam it claims that terrorism has nothing to do with islam as a religion but the evolution of muslims especially in the past one thousand years has created an environment in which fanaticism radicalism and violence can flourish supported by double standards by western powers and active backing for corrupt governments and groups islamic terrorism came into being it presents an overview of how islamic thought in many parts of the muslim world has become rigid and frozen and grounds for hoping that change in that thought may come from a perhaps surprising place it suggests the role that both muslim and western societies have played and will continue to play in contributing to reforming islam our purpose is not to provide a thorough proof of our ideas but to spark discussion and dialogue both in muslim and non muslim communities and ideally between the two as to how islam can regain in world thought and civilization the honored place it had during the golden age of islam the book describes the rise of science and technology in the islamic golden age examines the causes that led to its decline reviews failed later attempts for its revival and finally discusses social and religious reformation needed for it to flourish in contemporary muslim societies social reformation covers rule of law democratic infrastructure and human rights while religious reformation involves the reinterpretation of scripture it is argued that without such a social and religious reformation muslims a quarter of the earth's population will be less able to participate in the science driven 21st century world note that muslim leaders in the uk and elsewhere are not addressing the need of such an essential reformation without which muslims as a people will remain in a limbo and thus continue to be vulnerable to extremist ideas therefore this book should be a must for all those interested in the creation of a harmonious one world look at scienceunderislam.com for more information
